Mrs. Edith Cromwell told the judge her husband insisted on having more children in spite of her delicate health.

This husband and wife live in a two-room basement, with hardly enough to eat. Mrs. Cromwell has had 13 children, and buried six of them.

Mr. Cromwell said it was a man's duty to have as many children as he could, and admitted he was proud of himself and wanted to be provider.

The judge told the proud father that he was a moron, with a brain of a child 10 years old, and would have sent him to jail had not Mrs. Cromwell forgiven him and taken him home. There are many similar morons.

Our high-spirited Congress was outraged when President Coolidge vetoed five bills, and four of the bills were repassed over his veto, an unusual outburst, so near to a national election.

You will notice that the bill that was NOT repassed over the Coolidge veto was the McNary-Haugen bill, supposed to relieve farmers.

Many of our legislators voted for that bill to make friends at home and voted for it only because they were sure the President would veto it. Many of them also would have vetoed it had they been President and equipped with the necessary amount of courage.

Any Republican candidate openly favoring the McNary-Haugen bill, please turn to page 16, column 6.

King's Bay, Spitzbergen, May 26 (AP)—Fearful for the safety of Gen. Nobile's dirigible Italia, now out of Spitzbergen on her North Pole flight more than 80 hours, the crew of the base ship Citti di Milano bunkered coal all morning in preparation for sailing in search of the missing airship.

WOMEN DIE IN CRASHES OF AUTOS

Three lives were lost during the night in two automobile crashes, one in Wayland and the others in Abington.

Mrs. George C. Beale, wealthy resident of Watertown, was drowned in the Sudbury river in her overturned sedan after a brave battle to escape, in the Wayland accident.

Police dragged the river for hours, believing she might have had companions in her car, but gave this up when a garageman in Wayland Center reported that she was alone when she drowned and asked him the road to Waterbury.

The dead in the Abington accident are Mrs. Della Pierce of Franklin st., Wiltman, and Arthur Bumpers of West Elm st., Brockton. Evelyn Pierce, 15, daughter of Mrs. Pierce, and Cornelius Duggan of Green ave., Chelsea, were seriously injured.

Mrs. Beale, who lived with her stepson on Church st., Watertown, her husband being abroad, according to friends, was found in her car two hours after the time of the Wayland accident, as shown by her broken wrist watch.

Her hands, adorned with valuable rings, were cut where she had

It was expected that the ship would be ready to start by night and probably would proceed eastward around South Cape, Spitzbergen.

Raold Amundsen, famous polar explorer, was reported in conference with Norwegian government officials on plans to head a relief expedition.

The Italian consul in Norway has asked that government for all possible aid in searching for the missing airman.

One suggestion advanced was that the missing airship might have collided with a high mountain in northern Spitzbergen during her flight southward through the fog. One of these mountains is 1800 meters high.

The wireless operators of the Citti di Milano today continued constant efforts to get in touch with the Italia, but were unable to make any contact.

The last word from the airship was received 36 hours ago. The airship has a reserve radio with an accumulator which can be used even though the motors are not operating, and this

JAPS BACK KELLOGG ON HIS ANTI-WAR PROPOSAL

Washington, May 26 (AP)—Japan has expressed warm sympathy with Secretary Kellogg's proposal for a treaty denouncing war as an instrument of national policy and has notified the American government that she will be glad to cooperate cordially toward the attainment of that end.

While State Department officials would make no comment on the Japanese reply it was understood they felt it was favorable to the plan of the American secretary to bring into force the treaty between the nations against warfare. The communication said:

"The Government of Japan sympathizes warmly with the high and beneficent aims of this proposal now made by the United States, which they take to imply the entire abolition of war."

REP. LOGAN DEMANDS FORGRAVE 'SHOWDOWN'

A resolution that the House of Representatives condemn William M. Forgrave, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League and maker of liquor charges against state officials, was filed with the clerk of the House today by Rep. Joseph A. Logan of Boston.

At the same hour Forgrave was issuing another broadcast in which he indicated that he believes the question of getting "an unprejudiced investigation" by persons entirely unconnected with state affairs is "up to His Excellency, Governor Alvan T. Fuller."

The Logan resolution calls for condemnation of Forgrave for making baseless, unwarranted and slanderous statements concerning the conduct of members of the House of Representatives.

Explaining his move, the Boston Free Press says: "The House of Representatives is now in session."

AMUNDSEN WILL SEEK ITALIA

FEAR FOR NOBILE AS SHIP IS MISSING IN ARCTIC

fact has served to make the airship's long silence incomprehensible to the crew of the base ship.

Taking into consideration the state of the weather and the continuing winds, strong belief was felt today that the Italia has made for the Siberian coast, finding further efforts to reach Spitzbergen fruitless.

It was believed that the ship would run out of fuel by tonight at the latest. Under favorable conditions it is said the craft can remain in the air two weeks even without fuel.

There was a strong north wind blowing here this morning. It was known that the ship had battled with strong winds practically her entire trip. The Italia reported on Thursday that the wind was sometimes so strong that she was actually forced backward.

The ship was due back at her base yesterday noon.

As the Italia was making her way to the North Pole on Wednesday after leaving King's Bay at 4:40 a. m., she faced a northwest wind. Barring her return flight from the Pole on Thursday at 3:59 a. m., she was faced a northwest wind. When she changed to an easterly course the wind veered to the north-west.

It seemed probable that the airship's wireless had been silenced by the cold. The gondola in which the apparatus is situated is small and it must have been a fright there during the flight under the prevailing conditions. It was very cold all night. A northerly wind blew and all the

Nobile Crew Equipped to Fight Way Out of Snows

London, May 25 (AP)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen today said that reports received during the night failed to better the outlook regarding the dirigible Italia, missing on her return flight from the North Pole.

A message from King's Bay stated that the base ship Citta di Milano had been unable to establish communication with the Italia since 9 a. m. yesterday.

Reports from Oslo at 9 a. m. today said the Norwegian wireless stations were without news, said the Italia's supply of gasoline was sufficient to last until 4 a. m. today, but that the vessel would be able to keep in the air for weeks.

The dispatch adds it seemed beyond doubt that the Italia encountered fog, contrary winds and probably snow and that the storm appeared to have increased in violence.

Should the Italia be down on the Arctic wastes it carries equipment to enable the crew of 16, including General Nobile, to fight their way toward safety. This includes ski sledges, Canadian snowshoes and sleeping sacks of rubber skin.

Rome, May 25 (AP)—Official Italy was confident today that the dirigible Italia, would fight her way through fog and against heavy winds to safety.

Despite bad weather reports from the polar regions and the majority of the weather bureau in northern Europe, the aeronautic ministry was keeping the hopes of many inquirers buoyed up with the assertion that Gen. Umberto Nobile could not be far from his base. The ministry said that even if the Italia was in a storm she had already shown such resourcefulness that there was no danger to the general and the crew.

Some anxiety was felt during the night when it was learned that the

Nobile's Dirigible Can Remain in Air for Two Weeks

Rome, May 25 (INS)—Although its fuel supply will be exhausted some time today, Gen. Nobile's dirigible Italia, is capable of keeping in the air for about two weeks.

After that, the huge ship would be at the mercy of the elements.

If the crew lands the members are equipped with ski and sleds to fight their way out. An ample food supply also is aboard the missing airship.

Italia's radio had long been silent, but the tone of official reports from King's Bay today was that there was no reason for undue alarm.

Fear Nobile Misled by Mirages in North

Failure of Gen. Umberto Nobile's North Pole dirigible Italia to communicate with the world has led to the fear that she may have been a victim of an accident similar to that which put Maj. Fred L. Martin out of the army flier's round-the-world flight in 1924.

Maj. Martin, who was in command of the flight, was piloting the Scout with Sergt. Alva Harvey as mechanic when on a hop from Chignik, Alaska, to Dutch Harbor, he was misled by mirages in the air and crashed into a mountain-side of the Alaska peninsula.

The plane was wrecked, but Martin and Harvey escaped without injury, living for 10 days thereafter on concentrated food and nerve. Nothing was heard of the two aviators during the entire period, despite a thorough search of the region, and hopes for them were about to be given up when a radiogram from Maj. Martin to the chief of the air service announced their safety.

After the crash Maj. Martin and his mechanic retrieved some of the food supplies from the mountain side. Seven days elapsed before they came upon a trapper's cabin at the southernmost point on Fort Moller Bay.

BELIEVE THIS OR NOT! TOMORROW WILL BE FAIR!

The only storm in the country had to hit Boston today after yesterday's sunny false alarm. But a repentant weather man raises the hope of a fair and clear Sunday and a further promise of a spell of good weather that will last well into next week.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Cloudy with rain today and probably tonight; Sunday fair with not much change in temperature; moderate shifting winds becoming westerly Sunday.

LAST PHOTO OF ITALIA TO REACH U. S. This excellent photograph of the Italia in flight was the last picture of the big dirigible to reach the United States. It shows the airship near her hangar just before she set out on the flight to drop a cross, blessed by Pope Plus, upon the Pole.

AMUNDSEN AND NOBILE NEAR BREAK IN NORGE FLIGHT

New York, May 25 (AP)—An Arctic drama of more than usual intensity would be produced if Rold Amundsen, veteran Polar explorer, should go to the aid of General Umberto Nobile now missing in the dirigible Italia, since there has been friction between the two men ever since the famous flight of the Norge to the North Pole in 1926.

After the flight, the published memoirs of the two men showed that all had not been smooth between them. Nobile as builder and captain of the Norge, referring to Amundsen as merely a passenger, while Amundsen accused the Italian flier of "attending to appropriate for Italy the last great undertaking of his life, the flight of the dirigible over the North Pole."

On that trip, the Norge also was missing for many hours. Radio communication had been maintained between the dirigible and land stations until the Norge crossed the Pole, when no further messages were intercepted.

For many hours the fate of the expedition was unknown, and the world waited anxiously for news at length to hear that the dirigible had landed safely at the tiny village of Teller, Alaska, about 90 miles from Nome.

After that air voyage, Amundsen said that his exploration days were over and recounted his discovery of the northwest passage into the Arctic ocean, the Northern Magnetic Pole and the South Pole.

EUROPE NEARS PROSPERITY, SAYS PHELAN

New York, May 16—Europe has definitely recovered from the war and is fast approaching pre-war prosperity, James J. Phelan, Boston banker, declared here today upon his return from a three months' tour abroad.

"In Italy and Austria, progress is very apparent with no end in sight," said Phelan. "Likewise in Germany one can see little trace of post-war depression. The German people, however, have reached the point of economic recovery where uneasiness prevails as a result of the reparations problem. They are quite willing to pay their debts, but insist that a fixed amount be determined by the allied governments."

"France's recovery during the last two years is unbelievable. Belgium, due to the present low rate of exchange, probably shows slower progress than any other country on the Continent. Great Britain, with her back to the wall, is making notable progress."

"Europe strikes me as making a bold bid during the next few years for financial and economic leadership of the world."

While in Rome Phelan received his third decoration from the Vatican, the Grand Cross of the Military Order of the Sovereign Order of the Knights of Malta. Mrs. Phelan, who accompanied him on the trip, was made a Grand Dame of the Knights of Malta.

Both will leave for Boston tomorrow.

KILLS HUSBAND WHO ASKED FOR DIVORCE

Memphis, Tenn., May 25 (AP)—Joseph G. Stewart, 43, former president of the Dixie Margarine Company, was shot to death in bed early today. Deputy sheriffs said his wife, Ruby, 41, told them she shot him after he had threatened her life because she would not consent to divorce him.

"He nagged at me all night long," Mrs. Stewart was quoted by officers. "He asked me to give him a divorce, but I told him I had rather be dead than give him up. He got mad and told me if I didn't I would be dead before daylight."

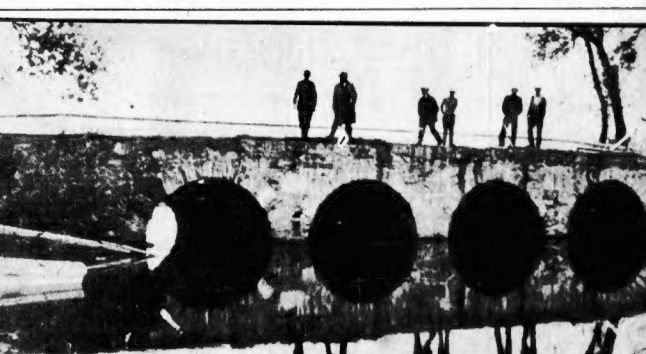

A bullet struck Stewart in the heart, killing him almost instantly. Mrs. Stewart said her husband left her last March and went to California to see another woman. "He had planned to go back to California and live with her," she said, "but I was determined I was not going to part with him."

ACTRESS DYING IN MYSTERIOUS POISONING

Mystery surrounds the poisoning of Lorraine Evans, pretty 24-year-old actress who is near death at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Though the address of the girl was given as 222 Commonwealth ave., Allston, police of Station 14 declared they were not notified of the case and a canvass of other police stations in the city failed to show any record of a report from the hospital authorities.

A private automobile carried Miss Evans to the hospital late Tuesday night. She was unconscious and critically ill from poisoning.

Whether the car was driven by friends of the young woman or by a motorist who may have discovered her lying in the street is not known. The police have been able to determine whether the poison was self-administered, taken by accident or forced upon her by a would-be slayer.

The absence of any information on the case at Boston police headquarters indicates that the poisoning may have taken place outside the city and the girl then taken to the hospital either by friends or by someone who chanced upon her as she lay in the street suffering from the deadly effects of the poison.

Because of the girl's condition in how postponed questioning her and hospital officials declined to make public the names of friends whom she asked to have notified.

GOOD LITTLE GIRL DRAWS GLAD HAND

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

UPON but few young women—and even less frequently with young men—is granted the privilege of soaring so high in profession and art as Eva La Gallienne has done. Her span of professional activity has been short; her achievements bewildering. Miss La Gallienne surely is the drama's unmatched champion of youthful endeavor and accomplishment. We are told that she is only 26, just the age when even the best of our young actresses leaves their talents with the plaudits of the multitude and offer devout prayers for social conquest. Miss La Gallienne, it appears, has avoided these pitfalls. And for heavy, self-imposed duty, she has reaped a rich harvest.

THE theater is crowded with good actresses; finely disciplined players of authority in speech and diction. Many of them have reached stardom and its fleeting glory; many of them wear well earned medals for distinguished service. But towering above the field you discover Eva La Gallienne, a totter of good report, of course, but even more important an artist of keen vision, of deep understanding and of marvelous courage. The success of the New York Repertory Theater Company stands as a monument to Miss La Gallienne's courage, no less than to her gifts as an artist. She may, by becoming modest, accept the laurels draped upon her shaggy shoulders for having been the first among her sex to discover the real need of the theater.

HOW well Miss La Gallienne has sensed the beseeching cry of the intelligent player, and how studiously she has responded to the call, may be found in the decision of the governing board at Tufts College to reward this young artist with a Master of Arts degree at the approaching commencement. Miss La Gallienne and her New York Repertory Theater may feel some pride in this unsought acknowledgement of a hard job well done. Really, the theater as an institution is to be congratulated. Honorary degrees often have been awarded for much lesser achievement.

KEEPING the theater alive in hot weather is much more than just a tough problem for the ambitious showman. More than any commodity on sale in the market places, indoor entertainment shrivels and fades under the assault of high temperatures. This is true, however, only under the ancient orthodox rules controlling supply and demand and the weather. It does not apply to Lakeside, Me., where pine breezes drift across farm and lake from adjacent hills and where good Broadway drama is on sale at summer prices. The Lakeside Players, you will find, demand attention for the quality of their contributions. They are not rural amateurs. Ellen Dorr and Crane Wilbur already have arrived with a sketch filled with new plays; Arthur Byron is moving forward to take his turn at June 15th, acting. Other names familiar to metropolitan players are enrolled and will keep the drama up straightway way alive and frisky until Labor Day.

Millions for DeMille Studios

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
(Motion Picture Editor Universal Service)

LOS ANGELES, May 26.—When said that Pathé and the DeMille Studios are going to pass out of existence? Old Dame Rumor missed it that time, for between now and December 31 there will be twelve special attractions and sixteen program pictures, involving an expenditure of several million dollars, turned out from the DeMille studios in Culver City.

Particularly interesting in this studio announcement is the word make three series of two reel comedies. There will also be serials, five in all. You would expect some serials from Pathé, wouldn't you? There will be little likelihood of Phyllis Haver's being turned out to other companies with these pictures to make, "Shady Lady," "The Other Woman," and "The Girl in the Red Dress." William Boyd, "The Flying Fool," "High Voltage," and "The Leatherstocking." So far, the plan will be featured in "Show Boat," "Listen Baby," and "Noddy Noddy."

There is a little surprise in the plans for Jeanette Loff, the young blonde, who has been at the studio only about a year. She is to be featured in "Geraldine," "The Diva," and "The Girl in the Red Dress." And, of course, in "Annapolis." Lisa Baquette and George Duray likewise are getting some good breaks.

Cecil DeMille's personal picture, of course, will not be made known to the writing public until he himself knows what will follow "The Godless Girl."

PAT SOMERSET, who first flashed across the horizon when he married Edith Day, musical comedy favorite, after a stormy courtship, that involved a couple of divorces, is the dark horse for "Broadway." The dog and pony rides are new features to attract children. The baseball diamond, the running track, and the recreation grounds, together with locker rooms for men and women, continue to furnish an ideal spot for outings and picnics. Many such parties have already been booked for the season.

CIRCUS HERE TOMORROW

The Sells Bros. circus will arrive tomorrow. Long before noon the big outdoor organization will be roughly housed on the Andrew and show grounds and acres of tents will be floating in what the circus people hope will be sunshine.

The year Sells Bros. claim the right to be considered the real big circus. Sixty-three thousand dollars were paid to the floating show for all its trained animals. These are now members of a fifty-two-day menagerie under the control of Peter Taylor in the steel arena. Four letters have been appointed to give information to school children at both matinee and evening shows.

In the big tent a group of famous circus acts have been assembled. Leading these will be the Riddle Hinnards, with George Hinnard the great riding clown. The Flying Horse, with George Ward, aerial gymnast, riding a 16 liberty horse. Bert Black, a remarkable performer on a slender wire. Peter Taylor and John Hallett, trainers of performing bears, tigers and lions. Ten Tangiers Arab tumblers, appearing here for the first time. William Wells and his high jumping Russian wolf hounds. Five barrels of elephants, and of course, plenty of clowns, headed by Foster Johnson, Charles Sells and Jimmy Davison.

Boston Elks to Stage Big Outdoor Show Tonight

As a fitting celebration to its 40th anniversary, Boston Lodge of Elks will stage a large outdoor concert at Braves Field tonight. The program includes a long list of vocalists, instrumentalists, and dancers. The appearance of the Elks' fight of the Brown and the Red, Inc. at Greenly Island.

More than three score members of the Boston Lodge comprise the committee, which is headed by the Hon. George E. Curran, exalted ruler, as honorary chairman.

"ABIE'S ROSE" RETURNING

Abie's Irish Rose, that married play written and produced by Anne Nichols, which has become the people's outstanding theatrical hit, comes to the Plymouth on Monday night.

The original New York cast will be seen here, including Andrew Black, Bernard Gorcey, Alfred White, Jack Kramer, Jack Burton, Bradley Bradbury, Harold Vincent and Patricia Quinn. The play offers an interesting story in which the love theme has not been overlooked. Throughout its unfolding there runs, as it were, an undertone of bachelorette philosophy.

Ringling Circus Will Not Give Parade This Year

Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's combined circus will cancel the traditional parade on the Sullivan grounds on Monday, May 28, in order to conserve the street parade.

The reason given is the difficulty of handling such a large parade through the city streets and the circus performers themselves, who are so busy with their circus under the big top, find it increasingly difficult to give their time to it.

As Lillian Letell, who is in charge of the parade, says: "It is a shame and a pity that the circus street parade is being given up."

It means spending all the time and money in the parade and the circus street parade is being given up.

The great labors of E. E. Clive, actor-manager-director-producer and chief voyageur of the Copley Theater, now stretch across the water. On Monday night in dead old Lunnon, "Murray Hill" will bow to a select West End audience. Mr. Clive, of Boston, New York, Chicago AND London!

How to Be Audacious

Marie Callahan, that consummate collegiate in "Good News," was asked what she could do when she applied for her present role. And with characteristic directness she replied, "I can sing, I can dance, I can act and I can make 'em like it." Needless to say, she was hired at once.

Track Stars in Final Bid for I. C. 4-A Title Today

HERCULES' LATEST RIVAL. Eric Krenz, gigantic athlete from Leland Stanford University, broke the Intercollegiate shot record yesterday in the Stadium, pushing the cannon ball 50 ft. 1 in. His perfect form and great size make him a sure place winner in the Olympics.

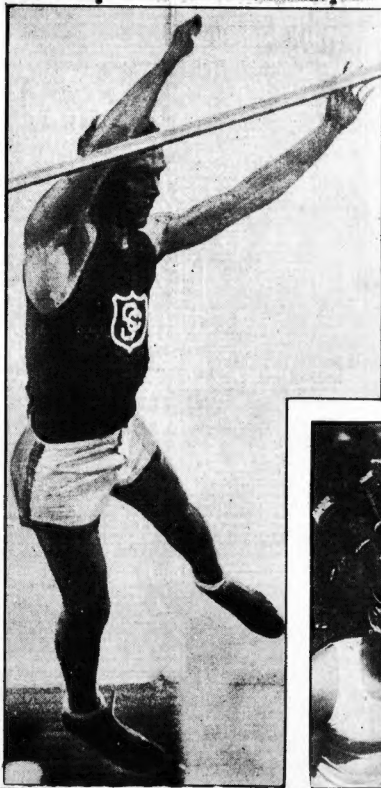

REDUCING EXERCISE. Bob King of Stanford has jumped well over six feet recently. The Cardinal leaper is a great stylist. He is the best high jumper in the college ranks at present. His five points will mean a lot to the Californians.

RECORD BREAKER. Albert H. Bates of Penn State, who led the qualifying field in the I. C. 4-A broad jump competition with a leap of 34 feet 10½ inches, which bettered mark he set last year by 1½ inches.

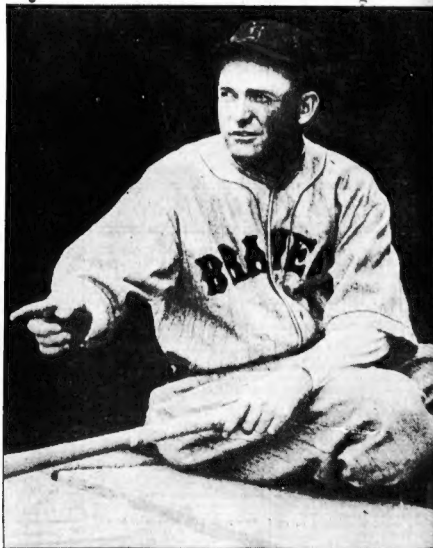

SOARING ELI STAR. Sabin Carr will try to regain the position of world record holder in the I. C. 4 A's. The Yale vaulter is capable of better than 14 feet. He held the record at that height until Lee Barnes cleared almost two inches higher. The duel between that pair will feature the meet. Other good men will push them.

HE'S ON THE UP AND UP. Lee Barnes, stocky Trojan, world record holder in the vaulting ranks has starred since schoolboy days. He was the 1924 Olympic champ. With Barnes and Carr, Uncle Sam is sure of some points in the Amsterdam vaulting.

IN NEW ROLE. This is the first picture showing Rogers Hornsby as manager of the Braves. This important task is nothing new to Rogers for he led the St. Louis Cardinals to a pennant back in 1926. Hornsby, however, has his work cut out for him pulling the Braves from the lowly position in the league to a place of consequence.

The man had one son. They will revenge my son," said the man and he sent the youth to the husbandmen. This is the heir," said they. "Let us kill him and his inheritance shall be ours." And they took him and killed him and cast him forth.

At the season, he sent a servant to collect what was his due. The husbandmen took him and beat him and sent him away. Another one they wounded and another one they killed and so they continued to beat and kill.

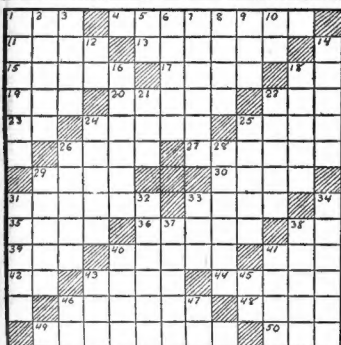

What, therefore, will the lord of the vineyard do? He will destroy the husbandmen and give the vineyard to others.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

ALL my Daughter, this is an age of undevoted daisies, but of good cheer. For there comes unto every woman a day when she shall be happy and content with life and all the world.

Go to. A man hath "even ages" but a woman is more content. For, having reached an age which pleases her fancy, she elicits there to and neither calendars, nor time, nor earthquakes can budge her.

No daisies can be 35, forever; and a woman who is never over "37" is as unconvincing as a blonde chorus girl's hair.

But when a woman saith, "So, I am THIRTY-NINE," who shall challenge her? For who knoweth when Indian summer cometh or when it shall pass? And, behold, 39 is the magic age at which all lifetimes cease!

Yes, verily, it is the Perfect Age of Woman, when all her doubts and struggles and regrets are forgotten and the harvest of her Happiness is ripe.

When her charms are full-blown but not yet fallen away; when her heart and her emotions are measured but not embalmed. When her illusions are few but not yet dead; and when naught in all the world can perturb or astonish or dazzle her.

When she hath ceased to yearn for "experience" as much for adventure and to tremble lest she die without love.

Verily, verily, youth hath its doubts and hesitations and daisies and uncertainties. But for a woman of 39, life holds no alonks!

And if hath come to pass that there is no such thing as a "woman of 40"!
